SF is an italian guitarplayer who moved to the american westcoast in 1997. So you can easily hear the musical influences of sunny california in his music. Through his folkrock you can also hear that SF is a huge fan of CSNY although he's also open for a more bluesy approach. Recordings were done in Italy and in the US. Along with italian musicians guit. Jeff Pevar and keyboard player James Raymond (both with CN) are guesting on dreamy songs like the bluesy (She Won't) Fly Away and the jazzy The Dance. Jeff Pevar is also brilliant on slide guitar in the titletrack. But even without the help from california, Stefano Frollano sounds very convincing on his guitar, especially in "Believe". In each song some italian beauty comes in to take the vocals to a higher level. In the closing song, Stefano only plays the acoustic guitar and leaves the vocals in the hands of Gabriella Paravati. Good songs, little remarks for this album.
